Asked in 4-Day Period.

Comptroller General William A. Wright on Tuesday held up a warrant drawn by the state highway poard in the amount of $272,874.05. In a letter to the governor explaining his reason for not immediately countersigning the warrant, General Wright pointed out that on March 19 only four days prior, the highway poard had cashed warrants totaling $546,132.27 at the state treasurer's office. His sole reason for holding up payment on the most recent warrant was the unusually large amount of money called for in a period of only four days, the amount totaling approximately $820,000. It has been usual for the highway department to draw warrants or the state treasurer to the number of two or threee per month, and these have averaged a little over $100,000 each in amount. General Wright did there ought to be some explanation why the department saw fit to draw such a large amount in such a brief being admitted that there was enough highway money in the state treasury to more than meet the warrant.

There were no other developments in the highway situation Tuesday. John N. Holder, who was ousted as chairman and a member of the board by Governor Walker, on March 11, but who contends that the governor had not the legal authority to do this,

Baltimore, Md., March 24.—Governor Ritchie today paroled nine men serving workhouse sentences of one year each for their part in the tarring and feathering of Dorothy Grandon, of Martinsburg, W. Va., at Myersville, Frederick county, last August.

WE ALL know that Coffee has gone up in price, just as almost everything else has done, but the important thing to remember is that Coffee-the best of drinks -still costs very, very little.

Even at present prices the average cost of Coffee for your home is only 11/2 cents a cup a trifling sum indeed when you consider the pleasure that is in it and the zest that it adds to your whole day.

As a matter of fact, the price of Coffee has gone up less in the last ten or twelve years than ham, or lamb, or shoes, or rent, or some other staples.

At 11/2 cents a cup, the cost of Coffee is only 1/20 or 1/40 or even 1/50 of the total cost of your average meal at home.

Where else can you buy as much genuine satisfaction for so very, very little? What else'can you buy that means as much to your enjoyment of breakfast, luncheon and dinner?

For Stagnation of Constipation

When You Feel Stale from Head to Foot as Result of Torpid Liver There's Nothing Equal to Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

Most people just hate to take laxatives and usually wait until they feel so bad that only a violent purgative satisfies. Such people would appreciate the action of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They have no drastic effect, in fact they don't act like most laxatives. Their main purpose is to atimulate the secretions that prevent headache, pimples on the face, bowel impactions, accumulations in the blood and other conditions resulting from constipated bowels. They are very small wafers and act without any of the usual violence of laxative drugs. But their action is remarkably thorough. And what is of more importance, their influence upon glandular secretions is such that in a few days you have not only gotten rid of constipation but you have eliminated its effects. Probably you eat too rauch and the liver may not handle, normally, the quantity and quality of the bloodmaking material, so it is deficient in bile. Stuart's Calcium Wafers induce a greater secretion and flow of this necessary element and you experience almost immediate relief from headache, nausea, and the stale, dragged-out feeling that so often causes one to shuffle along as it half-dead. Get a 56 cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store. Use them ten days and you will feel like a winner.

The business of conducting a great transportation system is not one which can be learned over-night or mastered by men and women who have not had practical experience. There are no "soft berths" in this organization, no useless jobs and no "appointments from the outside".

Every important position--in every department--is held by a man or woman who has been trained to do his or her particular job. Every important position of this and other railroads is held by someone who has risen from the ranks.

Such care in training makes for both safety and efficiency in railroad operations and has made American railroads the most satisfactory transportation systems in all this world.

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

MORNING, GOIN' TO HAVE A SHOWER? Some darn dentist or other, taking me to task because I don't believe all I read on the cartons, remarked that he and I seemed to differ on so many points, for instance, he believed in bathing.

You may not get the fine point of You may not get the fine point of that, but it is just like some dentists, and to make sure you know the kind of dentist I mean, let me explain that he gets his professional ideas largely from imitation magazines that come free of charge and with the compliments of some manufacturer of something or other in the dental line. One thing or other in the dental line. thing or other in the dental line. One such house organ purporting to be a magazine is peddled about under the euphonious title of Dental Hygiene, and I don't know how many peanut size dentists have sent me clippings from that near magazine in which the "editor" (probably between wrapping up some dental wax and a dozen spools of silk floss) abuses me because I don't believe all the bokum that I don't believe all the hokum that comes wrapped around the patent toothbrush or packed in with the proprietary tooth soap. One would be as much impressed with a clipping from Old Doctor Liverpill's almanae.
Well, speaking of bathing, the truth is I am no friend of the bath tub.
If I had my way about it every bath tub now in use by people who are physically able to wash themselves would be placarded "Dangerous— Keep Out" or relegated to the basement for the storage of potatoes or coal. Not that the warning would be strictly true—for comparatively very few people die in their bath tubs, after all. But it would be at least as true as the warnings against spit-ting in the street. Most of us who ting in the street. Most of us who spit in the street know perfectly well it is not at all dangerous. There is no evidence that any disease or injury is caused by spitting in the street. Spitting on the floor indoors is quite another question, for there the condi-tions are favorable for the survival of any disease germs which may be pres-ent in the sputa, whereas out of doors the effects of oxygen and sunlight are fatal to any disease germs which may be present in the sputa, and in a very few minutes so far as any further harm to humans may be concerned. Mind I don't commend the habit for indoors or outdoors 'tis not a pretty There is no evidence that one takes any chance of contracting any disease by bathing in any bath tub, be it in the private home or in a hotel or on any other institution. Even though a person having an infectious disease has just bathed in the tub, ordinary has just bathed in the tub, ordinary soap and water cleansing of the tub on preparation for your own adven-ture makes it absolutely safe.

Yet I say the bath tub ought to go, because it is unattractive from the esthetic sense (unless each individual) from the viewpoint of cleanliness.

Let me quote from a letter from Let me quote from a letter from physician connected with a large say, the patients are very much pleased with the change."

"I am sure I feel very thankful to a friend who recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to me about five years ago," said Mrs. Geo. Richards of 3507 Tampa St., Tampa, Fla. (Picture above.) "I was then in a miserable state of health. My appetite was so poor that I had no desire for food and I was growing wretchedly thin, was despondent and had fainting spells. A bonus plan was worked out based on certain cost elements for the previous year's operations. If these specified costs of train operation were not exceeded during 1924 it was agreed that a certain bonus would be paid the train service men in the form of a percentage of their yearly compensation.

A test ratio was established, made expenses to the total one of the ratio of certain operation.

New York, March 24.-Recovering

New York, March 24.—Recovering from, yesterday's severe decline, the bond market today made moderate progress under the leadership of speculative rails and industrial liens. Brisk rallies took place in some of the recent weak features, but on the other hand another slump in stock prices uncovered additional heavy spots, especially among the high grade rails.

Pan-American 6s led an advance in the oil liens as fresh buying was inspired by prospects that an early readjustment of the company's structure would be effected. The bonds at one time sold about 3 points higher and closed with a net gain of 1 1-2 points. Stockholders approval of the International Paper company's expansion policy contributed to the strength of the company's convertible 5s. Of a new bond issue which was authorized it is expected that about $15,000,000 will be offered to the public.

Much of the apprehension over the financial situation of the Interboro Rapid Transit Company, which caused a sharp break in the bonds yesterday, appeared to have been removed and prices scored moderate recovery today.

Demand for railroad obligations in cluded St. Paul, International Great Northern, Chicago and Alton, and Chicago and Terre Haute liens, but Erie convertible 4s. A and B. broke 1 1-2 points, respectively. The sagging tendency of investment rails reflected disappointing February earnings.

Another foreign industrial loan Another foreign industrial loan will apear on the market tomorrow in the form of $5,000,000 30-year, 7 per cent bonds of the Alpine Montan Steel Corporation of Austria. Priced at 91, they will yield 7.80 per cent

New York, March 24.—Curb stocks again declined today in sympathy with the reaction on the "big board," but the general list, with few exceptions, offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure and there were few net losses over 2 points.

Further liquidation of the oil shares was inspired by a cut of 10 cents a barrel in Ohio crude prices. Ohio Oil dropped about 2 points to 62 1-4 and losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points to 62 1-4 and losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points to 64 2 1-4 and losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points to 13 factorial prices are corrected by Prairie Oil and Gas. Prairie Pipe and Standard Oils of Kentucky and New York. South 13 1-2 on a few sales. Chief interest in the industrial group centered in the admission to trading of the new class A Serv-El stock, an Electric Refrigeration issue, which sold at a small premium above the recent subscription price. Car Lighting and Power held firm just below its recent high level. Good buying also was noted in Chapin. Sacks, which has been well supported throughout the recent reaction Lehigh Valley Coal certificates and Swift International each dropped about a point.

The radio issues showed a firmer tone, although a few touched new low levels in the early trading with the exception of Middlewest Utilities, which dropped 1 1-2 points, most of the public utilities moved within narrow and irregular limits.

Slowing Up?

Spring's here. You hear a lot of talk about slowing up, sulphur and molasses, sassafras, tea, and the like. But—it isn't always your liver that slows you up. Very, very often it's the condition of your eyes interfering with your efficiency. Anyway, it won't hurt to have Hawke's specialists examine them. They won't prescribe glasses unless you need them.

They Talk Politics, Too. "Upper society" matrons are not members of so-called study clubs, and very seldom do they attend lectures.

But society women of all ages are becoming increasingly absorbed in politics. Their political conversations, however, are mostly private family talks, unless the woman has been assigned canvassing work by her party in the neighborhood.

I had the good fortune to be dining with a distinguished society family one evening after the president had made a speech that was fully report.

one evening after the president had made a speech that was fully reported in the afternoon newspapers. It was a curious fact that the father, mother and daughters had read the speech and had many comments to make, while the sons sat silent.

Intellectual fads seem to be left to the daughter. It is she who buys the latest books that bring new light to social matters. She was not at all hesitant about looking into psychoanalysis, and it has lost little of its interest for her.

The young woman is an earnest

The young woman is an earnest patroness of the drama, too. She sees all the new couldes and farces. the tragedies and thrill plays, and discusses them fulsomely with her friends.

American society life is so strennously active it would never permit salons or levees for conversational interchange. The nearest approach to such springs of wit and wisdom is in the few hurried moments when groups to the few hurried moments of debutantes and other young women steal a chat. But they, too, have no leisure. To be really intellectual they would have to retire from society. There is little or no time for constructive thinking left.

Money Shunned As Topic.
One never hears business discussed in society. The men may talk of Wall Street when they are alone, but I doubt it, unless they happen to be associated in a directorate or something of the kind. No one discusses what one has a very great deal of, and so the extreme wealth of society folks makes money too dull a topic.

"I'm tired too. And we must conserve our strength, my dear, for the Russell-Smith—dance tonight."

Two society women in a casual conversation do not say extraordinary things. In their regal manner they discuss the same things that any other two women might talk of—clothes parties, opera, European trips, their

Unlike Any Story You Have Ever Read

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

SYNOPSIS.

Malone, a young Lendon newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves on the sum of that he has no heroic accomplishments to his credit, decides to search framework. An appeal to his editor, McArdle, for a particularly dangerous assignment its in his being sent to interview Professor Challenger, a scientist, who had recent med from a solitary expedition to South America, with an amazing story of a ture which had been skeptically received by his brother scientists. Challenger, and had since refused to talk, and would assault anyone, particularly reporter asked questions. He had broken the skull of one reporter sent to interview him.

I entered the club. It was just after eleven, and the big room was fairly full, though the rush had not yet set in. I noticed a tall, thin, angular man seated in an arm-chair by the fire. He turned as I drew my chair up to him. It was the man of all others whom I should have chosen-Tarp Henry, of the staff of Nature, a thin, dry, leathery creature, who was full, to those who knew him, of kindly humanity. I plunged instantly into my subject.

"What do you know of Professor Challenger?"

"Challenger?" He gathered his brows in scientific disapproval. "Challenger was the man who came with some cock-and-bull story from South America." "What story?"

"Oh, it was rank nonsense about some queer animals he had discovered I believe he has retracted since. Anyhow, he has suppressed it all. He gave an interview to Reuter's, and there was such a howl that he saw it wouldn't do. It was a discreditable business. There were one or two folk who were inclined to take him seriously, but he soon choked them

"Well, by his insufferable rudeness and impossible behavior. There was poor old Wadley, of the Zoological institute. Wadley sent a message: 'The president of the Zoological institute presents his compliments to Professor Challenger, and would take it as a personal favor if he would do them the honor to come to their next meeting.' The answer was unprintable."

"You don't say?"

"Well, a bowdlerized version of it would run: 'Professor Challenger presents his compliments to the president of the Zoological institute, and would take it as a personal favor if he would go to the devil."

"Yes, I expect that's what old Wadley said. I remember his wail at the meeting, which began in fifty years experience of scientific intercourse—' It quite broke the old man up."

SOMEBODY'S STENOG—Spring

"Anything more about Challenger?"

"Well, I'm a bacteriologist, you know. I live in a nine-hundred-diameter microscope. I can hardly claim to take serious notice of anything that I can see with my naked eye. I'm a frontiersman from the extreme edge of the Knowable, and I feel quite out of place when I leave my study and come into touch with all you great, rough, bulking creatures. I'm too detached to talk scandal, and yet at scientific conversaziones I have heard something of Challenger, for he is one of those men whom nobody can ignore. He's as clever as they make 'em—a full-charged battery of force and vitality, but a quarrelsome, ill-conditioned faddist, and unscrupulous at that. He had gone the length of faking some photographs over the South American business."

"How's that?" I asked. .

You say he is a faddist. What is his particular fad?"

"He has a thousand, but the latest is something about Weissmann and lution. He had a fearful row about it in Vienna, I believe."

"Can't you tell me the point?" Not at the moment, but a translation of the proceedings exist. We have it filled at the office. Would you care to come?"
"It's just what I want. I have to interview the fellow, and I need some lead up to him. It's really awfully good of you to give me a lift. I'll go with you now, if it is not too late." with you now, if it is not too late."

Half an hour later I was seated in the newspaper office with a huge tome in front of me, which had been opened at the article "Weissman versus Darwin," with the sub-heading, "Spirited Protest at Vienna. Lively Proceedings." My scientific education having been somehwat neglected, I was unable to follow the whole argument, but it was evident that the English professor had handled his subject in a very suggestive fashion, and had thoroughly annoyed his Continental colleagues. "Protests," "Upfoar," and "General appeal to the Chairman" were three of the first brackets which caught my eye. Most of the matter might have been written in Chinese for any definite meaning that it conveyed to my brain.

"I wish you could translate it into English for me," I said, pathetically,

"I wish you could translate it into English for me," I said, pathetically, to my help-mate. "Well, it is a translation."

"Then I'd better try my luck with the original."

"It is certainly rather deep for a layman."

"If I could only get a single good, meaty sentence which seemed to convey some sort of definite human idea, it would serve my turn. Ah, yes, this one will do. I seem in a vague way almost to understand it. I'll copy it out. This shall be my link with the terrible professor."

"Nothing else I can do?"

"Well, yes: I propose to write to him. If I could frame the letter here and use your address it would give atmosphere." "We'll have the fellow round here making a row and breaking the

"No, no; you'll see the letter-nothing contentious, I assure you."
"Well, that's my chair and desk. You'll find paper there. I'd like to censor it before it goes."

It took some doing, but I flatter myself that it wasn't such a bad job when it was finished. I read it aloud to the critical bacteriologist with some pride in my handiwork.

"Dear Professor Challenger," it said, "As a humble student of Nature I have always taken the most profound interest in your speculations as to the differences between Darwin and Weissmann. I have recently had occasion to refresh my memory by re-reading-"You infernal Har!" murmured Tarp Henry.

"You infernal liar!" murmured Tarp Henry.

—"by re-reading your masterly address at Vienna. That lucid and edmirable statement seems to be the last word in the matter. There is one sentence in it, however—namely: 'I protest strongly against the insufferable and entirely dogmatic assertion that each separate id is—a microcosm possessed of an historical architecture, elaborated slowly through the series of generations.' Have you no desire, in view of later research, to modify this statement? Do you not think that it is over-accentuated? With your permission I would ask the favor of an interview, as I feel strongly upon the subject, and have certain suggestions which I could only elaborate in a personal conversation. With your consent I trust to have the honor of calling at eleven o'clock the day after tomorrow (Wed-

"How's that?" I asked, triumphantly.

"Well, if your conscience can stand it-" "It has never failed me yet."

"But what do you mean to do?" "To get there. Once I am in his room I may see some opening. may even go the length of open confession. If he is a sportsman he will

He is a violent, dangerous, cantankerous character, hated by every one who comes across him, and the butt of the students, so far as they dare take a liberty with him. New Orleans is a morning paper city in advertising directed to womenin advertising directed to men in advertising directed to men and women alike

The Times-Picayune led in 31 out of 38 classifications of advertising during 1924

The table on the right presents unmistakable evidence that The Times-Picayune, published seven mornings a week, is the overwhelming choice of New Orleans advertisers and national advertisers, no matter whether their messages are addressed to men buyers, to women buyers or to men and women alike. The more experienced and successful the advertiser, the more likely he is to use The Times-Picayune as his sole or preferred medium to cover the great New Orleans market.

This tendency in favor of the morning paper as compared with the two evening-and-Sunday papers is particularly marked in advertising most easily checked for results. Department stores, for instance, which must buy advertising on a basis of definite and immediate results, used more space in The Times-Picavune than in either of the other papers on weekdays as well as Sundays, this newspaper's dominance over the second paper aggregating well over a quarter of a million lines.

It is noteworthy also that the department store generally credited with the greatest volume of sales used approximately as much space in The Times-Picayune as in the two other papers combined.

The table further indicates the dominant supremacy of The Times-Picayune in total paid advertising and in the three major divisions of advertising, local display, national and classified.

Such undisputed leadership could be attained only through faithful, efficient service to readers and outstanding, consistent results to advertisers.
